BANQUET PROVED CROWNING SUCCESS

The fifth annual banquet of the Board of Trade held last night in Ruthenian hall, Schoonmaker avenue, was a brillian success. The special train arrived from Pittsburgh on schedule time and the speakers and invited guests assembled at the Kilroy hotel at 7 o'clock where an informal reception was held. Members of the Board of Trade and invited guests began to arrive at the appointed time and things moved off in the order the committee had arranged.

At 7:30 all repaired to the hall where the banquet was served. The room was tastefully decorated in the national colors, flowers and other ornamentation and presented a very attractive appearance. Pancook's orchestra furnished most excellent music. The members of the Board and the invited guests took seats at the table preceeding the arrival of the speakers.

The speakers entered the room five minutes later amid the strains of music furished by the Pancook orchestra.

The banquet part of the program was in charge of the Isabelle Thoburn class of the M. E. church, whose reputation for service of this character is sufficient to guarantee a spread that will satisfy the most exacting appetite. The menu consisted of fruit cocktail, celery, olives, roast young turkey, cranberry sauce, gravy and dressing, mashed potatoes, hot biscuit, ice cream, cake and coffee. The service was the best ever furnished for a banqut of this kind. The ladies worked on schedule time and promptly at 8:30 the last course was served. Many flattering comments were heard about the table service and the ladies as well as the committee can feel proud.

Rev. Charles E. Keller pronounced the invocation after which the welcome address was made by the retiring president of the Board W. D. Cowan. C. R. New was then introduced as toastmaster. Mr. New spoke interestingly of the work of the Board of Trade, its accomplishments and its purposes and introduced in a fitting way, Hon. Curtis H. Gregg of Greensburg, an ex-member of congress who introduced the bill making it possible for Monessen to get in line for a government building.

Mr. Gregg started off with a spark of wit dealing with his desire to be returned to congress and the part played by the people of Monessen.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS CONTINUE INTERESTING

The union evangelistic services at the Presbyterian church last evening was certainly a public testimony of the people's will. The church was crowded to the very limit of its capacity with earnest men and women who listened attentively to an exceptionally good sermon deliverd by Rev. Jamieson. Rev, J. B. Swain was to have preached, but exchanged dates with Rev. Jamieson. Rev. Swain will preach tonight at the U. B. church on the subject "What Think ye of Christ?

The intense interest in these meetings and the constant demand of the people for a continuation of the same indefinitely, marks a deepening of the spiritual life of the community. The question of entering into a general union evangelistic campaign is now before the ministers and a decision on the same will be reached tonight af-

CHARLEROI GIRL FALLS INTO HANDS OF WHITE SLAVERS

Arrested early yesterday morning on Carson street, Pittsburgh, Jean Fields, a pretty brunette, aged 20, claiming to be from Charleroi, was held at the South Side police station, along with Samuel Lavarr, aged 21; John Novick, aged 27 and Michael J. Dean, aged 19, on a charge of being a suspicious person. The police are investigating a sensational story told by the girl at a hearing before Magistrate James R. Watkins.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday morning, Policemen William Russ and Edward Harkins were walking in Carson street when they were accosted by the girl, Novick and Dean who asked them to dircet them to 1921 Carson street, Lavarr's residence. The policemen questioned the trio and then arrested them, later going to Lavarr's residence, where he also conducted a shoe repair shop,and arrested him.

The girl said she came to Pittsburgh from Charleroi last Thursday and while down town she was accosted by a stranger who told her he was from her home town and offered to show her around the city. She said she remembered being taken to a cafe and then to Lavarr's shoe repair shop. The stranger then disappeared, she says, and she was left at the shop. She was not allowed to leave, she said, unless one of the men was with her. She testified Lavarr told her that the stranger who got her "often got girls that way and took them to the repair shop." She said she had been staying at the repair shop since last Tuesday night but would not tell where she had been before being arrested yesterday morning.

The magistrate held the four for further investigation and an effort will be made to find the stranger who took the girl to the repair shop.

THIS MAN WAS IN WRONG PEW

Holmes Leonard of Schoonmaker avenue, formerly of Charleroi was assaulted about 9:15 last night at 366 Donner avenue in the home of W. A. Jobes. Some suspicion seemed to be attached to the case when Officer Allbright was called, but at the hearing this morning the testimony was rather mild. Leonard claims he was walking past the house and he heard a fight inside and the screams of a woman. He says he entered the place to rescue the woman and when he entered the door he was struck on the face by Jobes for interfering with a scrap between Jobes and his wife. When asked if he knew the Jobes woman, he said "slightly."

The burgess disposed of the case by fining Leonard $10.00 and costs and Jobes $5.00 and costs and allowing the woman to go without a fine. When interviewed Mrs. Jobes said she didn't know anything about it.

MISS ELLIOT PASSES AWAY

After a lingering illness covering a period of several months, Margaret Elliot died yesterday at the home of her parents,Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Wilson of McKee avenue.

The deceased was a victim of lung trouble, the disease having fastened its hold upon her about three years ago. She recovered from her first illness and the patient, parents and friends became hopful for a long and useful life. But about a year ago Miss Elliot suffered a relapse from which there seemed to be no possible way for recovery. Everything known to medical science, coupled with care and sympathy failed to give any response and weeks and days only brought the end nearer until death came as a benediction at the above time.

Miss Elliot was one of Monessen's most prominent young women. She possessed a sweet and lovable disposition and surrounded herself with an army of friends who will ever miss her.

She was in the twenty second year of her age and while she made a heroic struggle for life, it semeed not to be the will of the Moster and she was removed from the presence of her earthly companions. Her life was closed as one passing into a peaceful sleep, almost without a struggle.

Miss Elliot was a devout member of St. Leonard's Catholic church and lived a Christian life. The f... will take place Monday morning from St. Leonard's church at 9:30. Interment will be made in Grandview cemetery.

HOW SUNDAY RATES SOME CHRISTIANS

"America is going crazy trying to boost people into heaven by the culture route," Billy Sunday has declared. His invective was directed principally against the ministers and the "booze-guzzling, poker playing, theatre-going, loose-moraled women and men members of the church."

"You can put a library on every corner and let every church member be a college graduate and that will never save you from hell," he shouted. "You need the old time religion You don't need more money or more culture but a floodtide of redemption. You can have your clubs and literary societies but they never will save you from hell.

"Do you suppose God wants to look through eyes red with the dissipation of the night before spent in debauchery" he continued. "Do you suppose God wants to work with the hands that lift a lirty beer glass one minute and the ace of spades the next and an immoral novel the next? Do you suppose God wants to use feet that walk into a booze joint or a house of ill fame one night and into a church the next? Don't you know that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit and you have a right to keep it clean?

"The Holy Spirit will not live among Limberger cheese and beer. It will not swim in tobacco juice up to its eyes"

Over 1400 have "hit the trail since the evangelist announced his first "call" Sunday afternoon in the big Philadelphia tabernacle.

CHARLEROI CHILD DIES

Little Mary Enos, the 19 months old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Clive Enos, of Charleroi, died Monday after a three days' illness. Intestinal trouble was the cause of death

Early in December, Dr. Enos was injured in an auto wreck so that for a few days his life was despaired of He was rushed to the Alleghny General hospital, Pittsburgh, where after some days he partly recovered. About one wek ago, Dr. Enos, Mrs. Enos and their son left for Asheville, North Carolina, leaving baby Mary with relatives. Friday the child was taken sick and the efforts of specialists failed to savve her. Word of the sad futality was telegraphed to the parents, but it is said they will not return for the funeral; Nearly two year sago, an older child, Hilda, was called by death.

Murderer Goes to Pen

Isiah Crosson, the Uniontown colored man whose death penalty was recently changed to that of life imprisonment, was taken yesterday to the Western penitentiary to begin the serving of his sentence. Had the sentence to the electric chair or hanging not been commuted, Crosson would have given up his life today. Crosson's wife was with him quite a time Tuesday and took him home-made good things to eat and some new clothing. "Ike" as the prisoner is familiarly known is said to be the first Fayette county murder prisoner who never had his picture taken or had his picture in the newspapers.

Going to Inauguration

Sergt. McLaughlin and his men and the Marianna company will join the Greensburg constabulary and the whole detachment will go to Harrisburg to attend the inauguration of Martin G. Brumbaugh as governor of Pennsylvania. It is not known just how long the state troopers will be away but it is thought they will be back at their posts of duty within a week or ten days.

Samuel Umbel's Funeral

The Claimant

By EUNICE BLAKE

On the estate of Lucien Marivaud, in France, lived a poor man named Soubise and his wife, Marie, the couple having a little son, Francois. M. Marivaud had extensive vineyards, from the product of which he manufactured wine. Soubise had charge of the grape growing, and Marivaud not only valued his services highly, but was very fond of him Soubise's wife died, and he soon followed her, leaving little Francois without a home.

M. Marivaud had a son, Victor, about Francois' age When the latter was left an orphan he was taken to the chateau and became a playmate of Victor. There was a brother of Victor, Louis, much younger than either of these two boys.

When Victor was eighteen he entered the military school and became an army officer. Upon graduating he was ordered to join his regiment in Tonkin. Francois was anxious to see service and, enlisting in the same regiment, went out with Victor, who agreed to interest himself in his promotion that he might become an officer.

A year later after a fight Lieutenant Marivaud was reported missing. This meant that he had fallen into the hands of the Chinese, in which case it was quite likely that he had been murdered. When nothing was heard from him for several years he was given up by his family, and when his brother, Louis, came of age he inherited the family patrimony, his father having died without a will. M. Marivaud had purposely omitted to make one because he never ceased to hope that his son would one day turn out to be among the living.

Ten years after the departure of Victor Marivaud, when there was no member of the family living, Louis, who had for some time possessed and managed the wine business, became engaged to Hortense Villaret, the daughter of a neighbor Mlle. Villaret belonged to an aristocratic family, but the estate had been confiscated during one of the many changes in the sovereignty of France, and she was very poor. She and Louis were much in love with each other, and her father favored the match because Louis was wealthy and could enable Hortense to return to the style of living to which the family had formerly been accustomed

All went happily for the lovers till a few weeks before the day set for the wedding Then one day a man appeared at the chateau claiming to be Victor Marivaud Louis was but twelve years old when his brother left home, and, granting that this man was Victor, he would not have remembered him There was no other person at hand who had been familiar with Victor to identify him

But the claimant was able to tell of many incidents that had happened on the estate, which went far to prove that he was what he claimed to be. He explained his long absence in this wise: During the fight in which he was reported missing he was knocked on the head by the butt of a musket in the hands of a Chinaman and stunned When he came to himself he remembered nothing of the past, not even his name. The dead were lying about him, the wounded had been removed He arose and walked till he came to a city, where he eventually entered the service of a French merchant After passing through various vicissitudes he was taken suddenly ill and was removed to a hospital. After having been delirious on returning to his former condition he had exclaimed, "You rascally Chinaman, take that for yours!" But seeing a nurse before him instead of a Chinaman he appeared much surprised. He had returned to a normal state, remembering that he was Victor Marivaud.

His appearance was a terrible blow to the lovers, for, according to the French law of inheritance, Victor Marivaud was the owner of the estate, including the wine business. He told Louis so many things that had occurred during the latter's childhood that Louis became convinced that the stranger was his brother. Nevertheless it was not to be expected that he would be pleased to see a brother of whom he had no remembrance and who would dispossess him of his property But the severest blow was that M. Villaret immediately withdrew his consent to his daughter's marriage unless it could be proved that the claimant was an impostor.

There was an old blind woman living on the place, who, on hearing of the claimant, desired that he be brought to her. She asked him a few questions, which seemed to trouble him, though he answered them correctly. Then the old woman directed that he be uncovered to the waist. This was done, and her hand was guided to his chest. She slid her hand around to his side under his right arm, and it rested on a small lump the size of a pea.

"This is Francois Soubise," she said "I lived with his mother when he was a little boy and often dressed and undressed him. I know him by this lump"

That ended the pretense.

Louis Marivaud after this attempt to impose on him went to Tonkin and made a search for his brother, Victor But, although he spent much time on the matter, he failed to obtain any information whatever. Victor never returned.

Monessen Opera House

A real burlesque, not imitation musical comedy, full of laughs, life and girls is Richy Craig's Queens of the Follies Bergere, the attraction at the Monessen theatre on Friday night, Jan. 15th. This is the season's record breaking burlesque show with girls, funny comedians and then more girls, giving the public just what they want. It has just come from a triumphal tour of all the large cities, it is one of the big city time wheel shows with a carload of scenery and effects, a saricty girly-whirly show with a carnival of beauties. There is a little bit of everything, a show entirely different from the rest with the two screaming burlesques "The New Janitor" and "From Broadway to Atlantic City." Between the two is introduced an olio of high class vaudeville acts. This is the show of all shows with catchy songs, beautiful costumes rip roaring comedy, gorgeous scenery, a clever company and a host of pretty girls, each and every one an artist, who can sing and dance and wear pretty clothes, and as a whole it is one of those choruses out of the ordinary. This is one attraction in the burlesque field that is delightfully frothy, sparkling and musical, the greatest snicker provoker and gloom dispeller of the present day.

CONTEST WAS BIG SUCCESS

By special arrangement with Manager Cowan of the Star theatre, Prof. and Mrs. DuVea are to remain over for tonight and possibly Friday and Saturday evenings.

Last night they packed the Star both down stairs and up until not another person could gain entrance.

The dancing contest was of paramount interest although it was a hard job to get local people to make the break and go onto the stage for the dance.

At last Prof. and Mrs. DuVea succeeded in getting five couples onto the stage after which the dance moved on most pleasingly and entertainingly.

The main prizes were carried off as follows:

Mr. R. Smallwood and Miss E. O'Tool, first prize.

Mr. G. Gibson and Miss Stewart of Belle Vernon, second.

Mr. J. Kaldy and Miss I. Monjot, third.

Mr. Walter McLaughlin and Mrs. Carlson, fourth.

Mr. Tom Daly and Mrs. Keyes, fifth.

This evening the first two couples are to dance for a decision and Mr. Daly and Mrs. Keyes have expressed a desire to challenge the winner, and for tonight and tomorrow night some interesting numbers are promised.

After the contest a number of single dances were enjoyed and appreciated by the audience and all received prizes.

Tom Daly showed gentlemanly consideration by choosing as his prize a bushel of potatoes and then asked Prof. DuVea to give them to some needy family in the town.

HOW SUNDAY RATES SOME CHRISTIANS

"America is going crazy trying to boost people into heaven by the culture route," Billy Sunday has declared. His invective was directed principally against the ministers and the "booze-guzzling, poker playing, theatre-going, loose-moraled women and men members of the church."

"You can put a library on every corner and let every church member be a college graduate and that will never save you from hell," he shouted. "You need the old time religion. You don't need more money or more culture but a floodtide of redemption. You can have your clubs and literary societies but they never will save you from hell.

"Do you suppose God wants to look through eyes red with the dissipation of the night before spent in debauchery" he continued. "Do you suppose God wants to work with the hands that lift a dirty beer glass one minute and the ace of spades the next and an immoral novel the next? Do you suppose God wants to use feet that walk into a booze joint or a house of ill fame one night and into a church the next? Don't you know that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit and you have a right to keep it clean?

"The Holy Spirit will not live among Limberger cheese and beer. It will not swim in tobacco juice up to its eyes."

Over 1400 have "hit the trail since the evangelist announced his first "call" Sunday afternoon in the big Philadelphia tabernacle.

Early in December, Dr. Enos was injured in an auto wreck so that for a few days his life was despaired of. He was rushed to the Alleghny General hospital, Pittsburgh, where after some days he partly recovered. About one wek ago, Dr. Enos, Mrs. Enos and their son left for Asheville, North Carolina, leaving baby Mary with relatives. Friday the child was taken sick and the efforts of specialists failed to savve her. Word of the sad fatality was telegraphed to the parents, but it is said they will not return for the funeral Nearly two year sago, an older child, Hilda, was cailed by death.

The Claimant

By EUNICE BLAKE

On the estate of Lucien Marivaud, in France, lived a poor man named Soubise and his wife, Marie, the couple having a little son, Francois. M. Marivaud had extensive vineyards, from the product of which he manufactured wine. Soubise had charge of the grape growing, and Marivaud not only valued his services highly, but was very fond of him. Soubise's wife died, and he soon followed her, leaving little Francois without a home.

M. Marivaud had a son, Victor, about Francois' age. When the latter was left an orphan he was taken to the chateau and became a playmate of Victor There was a brother of Victor, Louis, much younger than either of these two boys.

When Victor was eighteen he entered the military school and became an army officer. Upon graduating he was ordered to join his regiment in Tonkin. Francois was anxious to see service and, enlisting in the same regiment, went out with Victor, who agreed to interest himself in his promotion that he might become an officer.

A year later after a fight Lieutenant Marivaud was reported missing. This meant that he had fallen into the hands of the Chinese, in which case it was quite likely that he had been murdered. When nothing was heard from him for several years he was given up by his family, and when his brother, Louis, came of age he inherited the family patrimony, his father having died without a will. M. Marivaud had purposely omitted to make one because he never ceased to hope that his son would one day turn out to be among the living.

Ten years after the departure of Victor Marivaud, when there was no member of the family living, Louis, who had for some time possessed and managed the wine business, became engaged to Hortense Villaret, the daughter of a neighbor Mlle. Villaret belonged to an aristocratic family, but the estate had been confiscated during one of the many changes in the sovereignty of France, and she was very poor. She and Louis were much in love with each other, and her father favored the match because Louis was wealthy and could enable Hortense to return to the style of living to which the family had formerly been accustomed

All went happily for the lovers till a few weeks before the day set for the wedding Then one day a man appeared at the chateau claiming to be Victor Marivaud Louis was but twelve years old when his brother left home and, granting that this man was Victor, he would not have remembered him. There was no other person at hand who had been familiar with Victor to identify him

But the claimant was able to tell of many incidents that had happened on the estate, which went far to prove that he was what he claimed to be. He explained his long absence in this wise: During the fight in which he was reported missing he was knocked on the head by the butt of a musket in the hands of a Chinaman and stunned When he came to himself he remembered nothing of the past, not even his name. The dead were lying about him, the wounded had been removed He arose and walked till he came to a city, where he eventually entered the service of a French merchant After passing through various vicissitudes he was taken suddenly ill and was removed to a hospital. After having been delirious on returning to his former condition he had exclaimed, "You rascally Chinaman, take that for yours!" But seeing a nurse before him instead of a Chinaman he appeared much surprised. He had returned to a normal state, remembering that he was Victor Marivaud.

His appearance was a terrible blow to the lovers, for, according to the French law of inheritance, Victor Marivaud was the owner of the estate, including the wine business. He told Louis so many things that had occurred during the latter's childhood that Louis became convinced that the stranger was his brother. Nevertheless it was not to be expected that he would be pleased to see a brother of whom he had no remembrance and who would dispossess him of his property But the severest blow was that M. Villaret immediately withdrew his consent to his daughter's marriage unless it could be proved that the claimant was an impostor.

There was an old blind woman living on the place, who, on hearing of the claimant, desired that he be brought to her. She asked him a few questions, which seemed to trouble him, though he answered them correctly. Then the old woman directed that he be uncovered to the waist. This was done, and her hand was guided to his chest. She slid her hand around to his side under his right arm, and it rested on a small lump the size of a pea.

"This is Francois Soubise," she said "I lived with his mother when he was a little boy and often dressed and undressed him I know him by this lump."

That ended the pretense.

Louis Marivaud after this attempt to impose on him went to Tonkin and made a search for his brother, Victor But, although he spent much time on the matter, he failed to obtain any information whatever. Victor never returned.

Monessen Opera House

A real burlesque, not imitation musical comedy, full of laughs, life and girls is Richy Craig's Queens of the Follies Bergere, the attraction at the Monessen theatre on Friday night, Jan. 15th. This is the season's record breaking burlesque show with girls, funny comedians and then more girls, giving the public just what they want. It has just come from a triumphal tour of all the large cities, it is one of the big city time wheel shows with a carload of scenery and effects, a sarictly girly-whirly show with a carnival of beauties. There is a little bit of everything, a show entirely different from the rest with the two screaming burlesques "The New Janitor" and "From Broadway to Atlantic City." Between the two is introduced an olio of high class vaudeville acts. This is the show of all shows with catchy songs, beautiful costumes rip roaring comedy, gorgeous scenery, a clever company and a host of pretty girls, each and every one an artist, who can sing and dance and wear pretty clothes, and as a whole it is one of those choruses out of the ordinary. This is one attraction in the burlesque field that is delightfully frothy, sparkling and musical, the greatest snicker provoker and gloom dispeller of the present day.

STAR THEATRE

"Every One" in two parts, featuring Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude. 1t

CONTEST WAS BIG SUCCESS

By special arrangement with Manager Cowan of the Star theatre, Prof. and Mrs. DuVea are to remain over for tonight and possibly Friday and Saturday evenings.

Last night they packed the Star both down stairs and up until not another person could gain entrance.

The dancing contest was of paramount interest although it was a hard job to get local people to make the break and go onto the stage for the dance.

At last Prof. and Mrs. DuVea succeeded in getting five couples onto the stage after which the dance moved on most pleasingly and entertainingly.

The main prizes were carried off as follows:

Mr. R. Smallwood and Miss E. O'Tool, first prize.

Mr. G. Gibson and Miss Stewart of Belle Vernon, second.

Mr. J. Kaldy and Miss I. Monjot, third.

Mr. Walter McLaughlin and Mrs. Carlson, fourth.

Mr. Tom Daly and Mrs. Keyes, fifth.

This evening the first two couples are to dance for a decision and Mr. Daly and Mrs. Keyes have expressed a desire to challenge the winner, and for tonight and tomorrow night some interesting numbers are promised.

After the contest a number of single dances were enjoyed and appreciated by the audience and all received prizes.

Tom Daly showed gentlemanly consideration by choosing as his prize a bushel of potatoes and then asked Prof. DuVea to give them to some needy family in the town.

THE NIGNT OF BURLESQUE

Burlesque has joy riding and the limousine stuff beaten to a frazzle when it comes right down to covering ground. Richy Craig's Meryy Burlesquers and Queens of the Follies Bergere who are to be at the New Monessen theatre tonight are up to snuff at any stage of the burlesque game and when they head into the stretch, it is just like stepping up and cashing in your ticket. The show is a perfect cyclone of merriment and music, numerous pretty girls, dainty and clever, who form a delightful background for the two new sparkling burlesques, "The New Janitor" and "From Broadway to Atlantic City," between which will be found a most pleasing olio of high class vaudeville acts. This show's principals are capable and the comedians good, while the chorus of some 20 who will slip over the songs, will help keep you up with the procession and include more good looking girls than are usually seen on the stage at one time. In fact one of the biggest features will be the chorus of versatile, singing and dancing girls.

REVIVAL PROGRESSING AT A.M.E. CHURCH

The revival services at the A. M. E. church on Reed avenue is progressing with deep interest and much success. Mrs. Mathilda Robinson the Pittsburgh evangelist, is doing good work, preaching some very powerful and convincing sermons. The church is well filled nightly and last night two were at the altar, one of whom made a profession. There have been a number of other additions to the church during the early stages of this series of meetings. A cordial welcome is extended to everyone.

Evangelistic Meetings

ter the services. The question will be put to the people tonight, and if there is full evidence that the community demands such a meeting, then the pastors will do everything in their power to satisfy the will of the people.

The sermon last night was on the subject "The Precious Savior." Rev. Jamieson has never been heard in Monessen, to declare the old Gospel truth with such force and power. Everybody gave him the most earnest attention and at the close of the services gathered around him with profuse expressions of appreciation. His masterly manner in handling this great theme, brought the heart of the gospel to the attention of the congregation, with an earnestness of the spirit seldom enjoyed.

The song service was spirited and the old familiar hymns were sung with an enthusiasm that declared the soulfulness of the people. The prayer service was of that spiritual quality that brought the congregation into close fellowship with Him, who is the giver of every good and perfect gift.

The great crowds that have continued to throng these meetings from the very first night, has been a revelation to the pastors. These meetings were begun with the hope of interesting the church membership, but has now passed beyond the fondest hopes of the most optomistic. Just where they shall end is an unsettled problem. The Lord and not man seems to have the leadership. It is a foregone conclusion that if those attending the services tomorow night desire a seat, they must be in their place early. The services begin at 7:45 and everybody is cordially invited to come and hear the Gospel straight.

WHEN RUN-DOWN, WEAK AND NERVOUS

What Should a Man Do? Suggestion of Ohio Druggist to One Such Man Saved His Life, So He Says.

Nelsonville, Ohio.—"I was all run-down, weak and nervous and had no appetite at all. In fact I was very much discouraged until our druggist told me about Vinol and asked me to try it. I did so and it has certainly been a life saver to me. I can gladly recommend Vinol to anyone who needs a blood and nerve tonic."—S. S. STEENROD, Nelsonville, Ohio.

When a man is run-down, weak and nervous, he needs a good appetite, good digestion, better blood, more strength, more vitality, and we do not know of any medicine that will supply it so quickly as Vinol.

It is the active medicinal principles of cod liver oil aided by the blood making strengthening properties of tonic iron, contained in Vinol, which makes it so efficient in building up health and strength for weak, nervous, run-down men and women.

We ask every weak, nervous, run-down person in this locality to try Vinol on our guarantee, and if it fails to help you we will return your money.

Dynamite's Discoverer

The awful destructiveness of modern high explosives as applied in warfare is apt to blind us to the fact that the military use of explosives are after all, small and relatively insignificant says "The Little Journal." Their great consumption is for constructive purposes and in its broad relation to human progress a stick of dynamite is as peaceful as a plow.

Alfred Nobel was a Swedish chemist and engineer, born in Stockholm, in 1833. He came to America when a lad to study under John Ericcson, the inventor of the Monitor, and remained in the United States for four of five years, when he rejoined his family at St. Petersburg. In 1866 he founded a nitro-glycerine factory near Christiana, and in that year solved the problem of the safe use of that highly sensitive explosive. By mixing three parts of nitro-glycerine with one part of Kieselguhr, a highly porous infusorial earth, he obtained a plastic mass so insensitive to shock or blow that it requires a detonator for its proper explosion.

This material, named dynamite by its inventor, soon became one of the most powerful factors in the civilization and modern developments of this world. It brought to its inventor a great fortune of which the larger part ($8,400,000) went to establish five annual prizes of aproximately $40,000 each, which are awarded to those who in the opinion of the judges have done the most impartant work in chemistry, physics, physiology or medicine, literature and the promotion of peace.

The later years of Nobel's life were spent in Paris and in San Remo where he died in 1898. While his name will always be associated with the stupendous energy of dynamite, he was a man of singularly nervous and sensitive disposition, of fine and delicate courtesy and a deep student of idealistic literature and poerty.

THE COUNTY FAIR

By Peter Radford
Lecturer National Farmers' Union

The farmer gets more out of the fair than anyone else. The fair to a city man is an entertainment; to a farmer it is education. Let us take a stroll through the fair grounds and linger a moment at a few of the points of greatest interest. We will first visit the mechanical department and hold communion with the world's greatest thinkers.

You are now attending a congress of the mental giants in mechanical science of all ages. They are addressing you in tongues of iron and steel and in language mute and powerful tell an eloquent story of the world's progress. The inventive geniuses are the most valuable farm hands we have and they perform an enduring service to mankind. We can all help others for a brief period while we live, but it takes a master mind to tower into the realm of science and light a torch of progress that will illuminate the pathway of civilization for future generations. The men who gave us the sickle, the binder, the cotton gin and hundreds of other valuable inventions work in every field on earth and will continue their labors as long as time. Their bright intellects have conquered death and they will live and serve mankind on and on forever, without money and without price. They have shown us how grand and noble it is to work for others; they have also taught us lessons in economy and efficiency, how to make one hour do the work of two or more; have lengthened our lives, multiplied our opportunities and taken toil off the back of humanity.

They are the most practical men the world ever produced. Their inventions have stood the acid test of utility and efficiency. Like all useful men, they do not seek publicity, yet millions of machines sing their praises from every harvest field on earth and as many plows turn the soil in mute applause of their marvelous achievements.

FARMER RADFORD ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

The home is the greatest contribution of women to the world, and the hearthstone is her throne. Our social structure is built around her, and social righteousness is in her charge. Her beautiful life lights the skies of hope and her refinement is the charm of twentieth century civilization. Her graces and her power are the cumulative products of generations of queenly conquest, and her crown of exalted womanhood is jeweled with the wisdom of saintly mothers. She has been a great factor in the glory of our country, and her noble achievements should not be marred or her hallowed influence blighted by the coarser duties of citizenship. American chivalry should never permit her to bear the burdens of defending and maintaining government, but should preserve her unsullied from the allied influences of politics, and protect her from the weighty responsibilities of the sordid affairs of life that will crush her ideals and lower her standards. The motherhood of the farm is our inspiration, she is the guardian of our domestic welfare and a guide to a higher life, but directing the affairs of government is not within woman's sphere, and political gossip would cause her to neglect the home, forget to mend our clothes and burn the biscuits.

ONLY A STATE OF MIND

We borrow the following bit of philosophy from the Rochester Post Express: Now we have put it a little differently and in simple, homely, monosyllabic words which make their meaning plain. Business depression is a "state of mind" we are told; and how much more reassuring that is than to call it psychological, an uncouth, repellent, vaguely disquieting word which actually increased the general depression. If it was really so bad as that, being rooted in our psyche strangely diseased or fundamentally disturbed, it seemed a hopeless condition. since psychopathic ailments are always more distressful and persistent than any other kind. If business is dull, if men won't pay their bills or buy your goods or rent your houses, if jobs are elusive and food is scarce, there is comfort in knowing that it is only a state of mind, a fancy, a foolish notion, a passing mood, a fit of the blues. It seems less serious, looked at in that light, than if it were an actual economical condition due to the tariff, to experimental legislation, to court proceedings against business and to the war. How cheerful we feel when the doctor smiles our fears away and we find that nothing ails us; and how bravely shall we go to work again as soon as the president has convinced us that our trouble which seems so real is nothing but a state of mind

NIGHT SCHOOL

The night school means much to any community where it may be introduced. There may be those who scoff at the idea and say that which cannot be accomplished in the hours of daylight should be left undone along this line, but the night schools that are being held in Monessen, more particularly for the benefit of our growing foreign element is doing a wonderful amount of good, as is also the commercial night school of Charleroi.

The desire for such an institution is to the credit of those whose opportunities are limited, but who never the less appreciate the benefits of education and are willing to work overtime at night to get it Night schools are, in many instances, entering wedges or stepping stones for many to our high schools and colleges, as many a great and good man, commercially, morally and religiously, got his start by going to night school and burning the midnight lamp. So let those in Monessen, who are in the proper position, encourage night schools in every possible way, as it is the only way many of this town's young people can get a bit of education, and fit them for the battles of life before them.

AUTHOR AND HUMORIST

The late Marshall P. Wilder, author and humorist, who died the other day in a western city, was quite a character. Much of his time during recent years he spent at Atlantic City and few visitors to that notorious seaside resort who had an inclination toward humorous literature failed to get a glimpse at the peculiar body in which this genius lived for so many years. Those who were acquainted with him grew to be very fond of him and were vastly entertained by his constant fund of humor. Persons who did not know him would never have supposed so optomistic a soul dwelt in the house he carried about with him. It is another vivid refutation of the idea that the soul is shaped and controlled by the physical appearance or that the body has supreme influence over the spirit. Wilder will long be remembered by his friends and by many who were charmed by him but were not presumptuous enough to call him their friend.

Mines Start Up

Sunnyside, Mongah and Gallatin mines have been put in operation in full. These mines have been shipping some coal by rail all winter and the starting of river operations means the employment of many men along the valley. The Alice and Eclipse mines in the fourth pool have also resumed and a large number of men have gone to work. It is said that fully 2,000 men made application for work at these two mines.

He led up to his subject which was a masterly effort on "American Citizenship." His speech was oratorical and at times dramatic and the effort was well received.

J. B. Yohe, general manager of the P. & L. E. railroad company, was the next speaker. Mr. Yohe seemed at his best last night. He referred to his career way back on the farm in Washington county when he used to haul hay cocks with a grapevine rope from the harvest field to the barn. Leading up he had many good things to offer about the relation of his road "The Little Giant" to Monessen and the Monongahela valley. He did not fail to appreciate the love that local people have for a spark of humor and in this way also he pleased

"The Business Future of the Monongahela Valley" was handled by Col. H. P. Bope, vice president of the Carnegie Steel company. The Colonel spoke extemporaneously. He poured a few hot shots at the speakers who had preceeded him and livened the occasion by his wit and humor. He talked for one hour, dealing with industrial questions of the day and the future possibilities of the Monongahela valley and Monessen.

The Colonel made friends by the score in the banquet room and his visit here on such an occasion was certainly a pleasure The town is better off for having had him The evening's' program was closed with a few remarks by Mr. New as to the future of the Board and the earnestness with which the year's work can be taken up.

The visiting guests last night were· Col. H. P. Bope, vice president Carnegie Steel Co.; J B Yohe, general manager P. & I E. R. R. Co; Hon. Curtis H. Gregg, ex-Congressman; H. I. Schotter, general superintendent Carnegie Steel Co.; J. W. Riley, superintendent P & L E. R. R. Co; N K. Hoffman, superintendent car service P. & L. E. R. R Co; J. B. Nessle, general freight agnt P & L E. R R Co, J. C. Grooms, general real estate agent P. & L. E. R. R. Co.; J. B. Yohe, Jr, passenger train master P. & L. E. R. R. Co; A. D. Brown, secretary to Mr J. B Yohe; Wyn B. Morris, assistant general passenger agent of the P. & L. E R. R. Co. and the three county commissioners, W. D Reamer, Geo Brechbill and Wm G. Muse

Letters of regret were read from Col J M. Schoonmaker and Wallace H Rowe. The banquet, the speaking and every detail of the evening's program could hardly be improved upon and general satisfaction resulted

VOLLEY BALL

The Pittsburgh Steel Giants continued their winning streak yesterday by defeating the Pirates in a well played game of volley ball despite the one sided score. Kelly put up a fine game for the Pirates, while Shupe divided honors for the Giants. The lineup and score:

Steytler—Net		Kelly—Net
Shupe—Net		Baxter—Net

A Gladstone Anecdote.

Lord Alverstone tells this anecdote of Gladstone in his "Recollections:"

"Mr Gladstone was very much interested in the Caucasus I had a friend, Captain X., who had recently come home from that district, and I gave him a letter of introduction to Mr. Gladstone. A few days later I met Mr Gladstone in Parliament street. He stopped me and said, 'Your friend Captain X. knows more about the Caucasus than any man I ever met. A few minutes afterward I met Captain X. in Pall Mall. I said to him 'Well, you have made a great impression on Mr. Gladstone.' 'Have I?' he said. 'Yes,' I replied 'He says you know more about the Caucasus than any man he ever met. 'Well, said Captain X., that is very strange, for, though I was with him for three quarters of an hour, I only made three observations."

Fine Encouragement.

Willie was of an economical turn of mind He called upon Elizabeth many times before he bought her a box of candy At last he loosened up and bought an eighty cent pound box

That evening his brother noticed that he had a grouch on and asked the trouble

"That blamed old cur ate half of that box of eighty cent candy, he said, referring to Elizabeth's Scotch collie.

The next time he bought candy he bought, in addition to another eighty cent pound box, a bag of ten cent store candy for the dog

"Oh, William!" said Elizabeth. "How thoughtful of you: I am so glad that you and Rover are becoming friends!"—New York Globe.
